Family dynamics. We all have them!

Usually, we wouldn't trade ours for somebody else's.

This interactive study will explore “dysfunctional” families in the First and Second Testaments, complete with animosity and jealousy. The book ($16, Pilgrim Press) – which provides excellent historical references, plus family ministry ideas and resources – is optional, but helpful. Please consider ordering through a local bookstore, like Hearts and Minds, run by Byron and Beth Borger <https://www.heartsandmindsbooks.com/>.

- Jan 13 Parental Authority – Jephthah, Parable
- Jan 20 Blended Families – Abraham, Esther
- Jan 27 Suffering and Grief – Job, Jesus
- Feb 3 Multicultural Families – Moses, Jezebel
- Feb 10 Domestic Violence / Violation – Hosea, Gomer
- Feb 17 Singles – Delilah, Jesus, Mary, Martha
- Feb 24 Overview of Families – Biblical Understanding, Family Systems Theory

This study is open to men and women with Zoom capability who are hungry for learning about the Bible – especially shut-ins, and those in congregations who may have limited pastoral leadership. The class is facilitated by two Certified Christian Educators in the PC(USA).

RE Debbie Hough, retired, served congregations in AL, NC, TX, and, most recently, Derry PC in Hershey, PA as the Director of Christian Education. A graduate of the Presbyterian School of Christian Education and Princeton Theological Seminary, her passion for mission through the Presbyterian Education Board of Pakistan has resulted in three trips to Pakistan. She and a group from Derry Church hope to return to dedicate a new wing to the Boys' School in Sargodha, Punjab District. Debbie serves on the Administrative Committee of Carlisle Presbytery, and lives in Palmyra, PA, with her two cats. Oh, and ask her about her dolls!

TE Katy Yates Brungraber is a Member-at-Large in Carlisle Presbytery who offers church consulting workshops and discernment retreats. A graduate of New Brunswick Theological Seminary (RCA), her ministry in five presbyteries has included calls as Educator, Solo

Pastor, and Pulpit Supply (20+ congregations). Currently, she serves on Carlisle's Commission on Ministry (COM), and a committee of Chambersburg's Racial Reconciliation Team, investing in ecumenical and inter-faith community work. Pastor Katy and her husband Kurt live in Chambersburg, PA with cats, Moses and Miss Miriam (yes, there's a God story).
