

CHURCH, COMMUNITY AND MISSION

Pastoral education course

You are invited to join a transformational Bible study sponsored by the Presbytery of Carlisle and led by Honduras mission co-worker Dori Hjalmarson. The study will take place via Zoom, 4:30 p.m. Sundays, for six weeks starting on Oct. 9.

“Church, Community and Mission” examines God’s mission of jubilee and salvation in the world and the church’s participation in that mission. Over the past two years, the Honduras Presbyterian Church has used the study to generate transformation and energetic reflection on its relationship to the larger community, redefining “evangelism” and Christian responsibility. The study was written by professors at the Latin American Biblical University in Costa Rica and translated to English by Presbyterian mission co-workers. It is participatory, conversational, and open-minded.

When: Sundays, 4:30 PM Eastern Time, Oct. 9-Nov. 13

Register in advance for this meeting:

<https://us02web.zoom.us/meeting/register/tZAtdO2uqzkrHtGAL-cqVfyJEijamfxgjbo->

After registering, you will receive a confirmation email containing information about joining the study.

By Elisabeth Cook and Ross Kinsler, 1992, San José, Costa Rica

Ross Kinsler, PhD in New Testament, worked 13 years in Guatemala in theological education and then at the Latin American Biblical University in Costa Rica for a similar number of years. At the time of writing, he was academic dean at Latin American Biblical University. Elisabeth Cook, PhD in theology and religion, is currently rector of the Latin American Biblical University. At the time of writing, she was a student and worked in the publications department of the university.

Translated by Dori Hjalmarson, Leslie Vogel, and Stephanie Vasquez

Presbyterian Church-USA mission co-workers and Global Language Resources officer

